

KIDSTAR is a proactive approach to character building using role playing and fun!

KIDSTAR offers a variety of interactive presentations designed to challenge young students (K-8) in the area of values, feelings, problem solving, decision making, and development of courteous behavior.

The presenters facilitate the sessions through the interactive use of role playing and improvisation. Exercises are structured to provide enjoyable learning experiences for children. Follow-up classroom work assures that lessons learned are generalized into everyday behavior.

The cast of KIDSTAR have used their combined experiences in communication, performing arts, and counseling to develop a truly unique program. Simply choose a topic or topics from the menu and we will put together a program for your class or group.

Kids learn about the topic through acting, role playing, and creative games. The experience is not only tailored to the age of the children but changes as the session progresses to meet the children where they are.

We will tailor any of our programs to meet your specific needs.
